

* DESCRIPTIONS AND PREREQUISITES FOR SPECIAL TOPIC COURSES KELLETT SCHOOL

ED 780 K1	Special Topics: Environment of Respect and Rapport	3 semester hours
	A seminar-style course in which the content changes in response to current trends in education and/or to meet certification requirements. Major course topics include the following: Gradual Release of Responsibility; research & application of effective practices within disciplinary fields; co-teaching models; academic interventions & systems of support; incorporating Understanding by Design elements into unit plans Prerequisites: consent of the Director of the Graduate Education Programs.
ED 780 K2	Special Topics: Institutional Practices	3 semester hours
	A seminar-style course in which the content changes in response to current trends in education and/or to meet certification requirements. Major course topics include the following: Implementing PBIS classroom based practices; restorative practices and implementing student surveys and feedback loops. Prerequisites: consent of the Director of the Graduate Education Programs.
MU 680K1		1 semester hour
	Courses with various topics relating to music education. Offered: summer.
MU 680K1		1 semester hour
	Courses with various topics relating to music education. Offered: summer.
NUR 480K1	Spec Topics Nsg: Trauma Informed Care	3 semester hours
	Topic: Social Determinants of Health and Vulnerable Populations The conditions in which people live, play, and work lead to inequalities and shape health in powerful ways. Health is determined, in large part, by social and economic opportunities, access to resources, education, safety, and quality of water, food, and air. The particular needs of vulnerable populations whose health is significantly impacted by social and economic forces will be explored. This course studies the determinants in meaningful ways and prepares nurses to assess, plan, and implement strategies to reduce disparities, increase health equity, and promote social justice. Pre- or co-requisite: NUR 301: Professional Nursing Practice or consent.	